	Dear Tina, Thanks for your letter. I'm glad you liked the postcard I sent you! In your letter you asked me about my attitude to soaps. Well, I agree that soaps don't show life realistically because their plots are rather unbelievable and all emotions are exaggerated. As for me, I prefer whodunits, which keep me in suspense till the very end. I usually watch films at home but I never miss a chance to go to the cinema with friends. It's much more exciting to watch films together. I miss you greatly! Write back soon and tell me all your latest news. How is your sister? Has she passed her driving test? And what about your mother? Sports and a healthy way of life

Sport is very important in our life. It is popular among young and old people. Many people do morning exercises, jog in the morning, train themselves in clubs, in different sections and take part in sport competitions.

Other people like sports too, but they only watch sports games, listen to sports news. They prefer reading interesting stories about sportsmen. But they don't go in for sports.

Physical training is an important subject at school. Pupils have got physical training lessons twice a week. Boys and girls play volley-ball and basket-ball at the lessons. There is a sportsground near our school and school-children go in for sports in the open air. A lot of different competitions are held at schools, a great number of pupils take part in them. All participants try to get good results and become winners.

Sport helps people to keep in good health. If you go in for sports, you have good health and don't catch cold. Children and grown-ups must take care of their health and do morning exercises regularly.

There are some popular kinds of sports in our country: football, volley-ball, hockey, gymnastics, skiing, skating. Athletics is one of the most popular kinds of sports. It includes such kinds of sports as running, jumping and others. Everybody may choose the sport he (or she) is interested in.

My favourite sport is swimming. I go to the swimming-pool twice a week. But I prefer to rest by the lake or the river and swim there. My friend Kostya goes in for boxing. He is a good boxer and he is a brave and courageous boy. His hobby helps him in his everyday life.

- 2. It's very polite to say in English "I want you to teach me English"
- 3. Russians are not honest with others
- 4. In Russian culture it is unusual to smile at strangers

Cultural differences between Russia and the UK

Hi! I'm Sinead. I live in England and last year I graduated from University, where I studied French and Russian. I am now a qualified EFL teacher, holding a certificate from Cambridge University, and in 2010 I was a teacher at Jump English School whilst I was living in Moscow.

I am going to talk to you today about cultural differences between Russia and the UK. Whilst I was in Moscow, I noticed that many Russians did things that British people would find 'rude' or impolite.

Similarly, many of my Russian friends living in the UK noticed that British people are TOO polite, and often say "please" or "thank you" when actually they don't need to!

So, if you want to get along in the UK or be polite to your British friends in Russia, here is my advice to you:

- 1. Always say sorry. Always. If somebody in the street accidentally steps on your foot, you must both say sorry. I guess he must say sorry for stepping on you, and you must say sorry for getting in the way! It sounds crazy, but this is very normal in Britain.
- 2. The English language does not have the polite/formal version of "you". This means that although in Russian, a phrase such as "I want you to teach me English" could be very polite with the correct form of "you"; in English this sounds a little rude.

To help with this problem, the English language has many "introductory phrases" which take the position of polite "you" in phrases. So, the phrase "I want you to teach me English", could become: "Oh I'm sorry to bother you, but I was wondering if you wouldn't mind teaching me a bit of English some time? Feel free to say no!"

3. Honesty is not always the best policy. When I first spoke with Russian people, some things they said made me very upset. Then, I realised that they were just being honest with me! Personally, I believe that the Russian way is the best way, but unfortunately not many English people agree with me!

So, if you don't want to upset your English friends, try not to say things like: "oh, you don't speak Russian very well" or, "I don't think your hair looks very nice today" or, "I don't want to see you tomorrow". You don't have to lie, but try to make the truth sound more friendly!

4. Finally, SMILE! In England, smiling is like currency. Real smiles; fake smiles; big smiles; small smiles; happy smiles; sad smiles, they are all worth something! I learned that in Russian culture it is unusual to smile at strangers, but in the UK it is expected, so it's time to start practicing!

I hope this was interesting and useful for everybody. I look forward to being your online teacher and I can't wait to meet you!

- 3. Russians are not honest with others
- 4. In Russian culture it is unusual to smile at strangers

Cultural differences between Russia and the UK

Hi! I'm Sinead. I live in England and last year I graduated from University, where I studied French and Russian. I am now a qualified EFL teacher, holding a certificate from Cambridge University, and in 2010 I was a teacher at Jump English School whilst I was living in Moscow.

I am going to talk to you today about cultural differences between Russia and the UK. Whilst I was in Moscow, I noticed that many Russians did things that British people would find 'rude' or impolite.

Similarly, many of my Russian friends living in the UK noticed that British people are TOO polite, and often say "please" or "thank you" when actually they don't need to!

So, if you want to get along in the UK or be polite to your British friends in Russia, here is my advice to you:

- 1. Always say sorry. Always. If somebody in the street accidentally steps on your foot, you must both say sorry. I guess he must say sorry for stepping on you, and you must say sorry for getting in the way! It sounds crazy, but this is very normal in Britain.
- 2. The English language does not have the polite/formal version of "you". This means that although in Russian, a phrase such as "I want you to teach me English" could be very polite with the correct form of "you"; in English this sounds a little rude.

To help with this problem, the English language has many "introductory phrases" which take the position of polite "you" in phrases. So, the phrase "I want you to teach me English", could become: "Oh I'm sorry to bother you, but I was wondering if you wouldn't mind teaching me a bit of English some time? Feel free to say no!"

3. Honesty is not always the best policy. When I first spoke with Russian people, some things they said made me very upset. Then, I realised that they were just being honest with me! Personally, I believe that the Russian way is the best way, but unfortunately not many English people agree with me!

So, if you don't want to upset your English friends, try not to say things like: "oh, you don't speak Russian very well" or, "I don't think your hair looks very nice today" or, "I don't want to see you tomorrow". You don't have to lie, but try to make the truth sound more friendly!

4. Finally, SMILE! In England, smiling is like currency. Real smiles; fake smiles; big smiles; small smiles; happy smiles; sad smiles, they are all worth something! I learned that in Russian culture it is unusual to smile at strangers, but in the UK it is expected, so it's time to start practicing!

I hope this was interesting and useful for everybody. I look forward to being your online teacher and I can't wait to meet you!

Прочитайте текст, определите проблему, выразите свое отношение к ней (5-15 предложений):

Two out of three adults and one out of three children in the United States are overweight or obese, and the nation spends an estimated $190 billion a year treating obesity-related health conditions. Rising consumption of sugary drinks has been a major contributor to the obesity epidemic. A typical 20-ounce soda contains 15 to 18 teaspoons of sugar and upwards of 240 calories. A 64-ounce fountain cola drink could have up to 700 calories. People who drink this "liquid candy" do not feel as full as if they had eaten the same calories from solid food and do not compensate by eating less. Beverage companies in the US spent roughly $3.2 billion marketing carbonated beverages in 2006, with nearly a half billion dollars of that marketing aimed directly at youth ages 2–17. And each year, youth see hundreds of television ads for sugar-containing drinks. In 2010, for example, preschoolers viewed an average of 213 ads for sugary drinks and energy drinks, while children and teens watched an average of 277 and 406 ads, respectively. Yet the beverage industry aggressively rebuffs suggestions that its products and marketing tactics play any role in the obesity epidemic. Adding to the confusion, beverage industry-funded studies are four to eight times more likely to show a finding favorable to industry than independently-funded studies. This fact sheet assembles key scientific evidence on the link between sugary drink consumption and obesity.
